beldam lascar pathan white packing

Description

To meet the more arduous and exacting conditions of the Royal Navy, Beldam Pathan White has been specially developed. It is similar in construction to Pathan packing, but a special blend of high melting point greases and mica are incorporated during manufacture.

This packing is entirely free from graphite, thus eliminating the risk of electrolytic action. The strands of anti-friction white metal wire incorporated in the packing reduce friction and overheating to a minimum.

Service

Pathan White is a most satisfactory packing for stern glands where high peripheral speeds are encountered. It can also be used successfully as a rudder post and stabiliser gland packing.
